About The Course

Typically, human trafficking training opportunities explore vulnerabilities that lead to an individual being victimized by a trafficker; rarely do they focus on vulnerabilities from the perpetrator's perspective and how they become engaged as a trafficker.

This training opportunity explores upstream prevention approaches that can intervene to support youth at risk of becoming a trafficker.

Cost: $45.00 + HST = $50.85

Background

Timea E. Nagy, International Survivor Advocate and Survivor of Human Trafficking, sat down for a two-day interview with Frank Dorsey, former Canadian Pimp, in a Canadian Federal Prison.

It took eight years to complete this project from start to finish. Timea's idea to record an interview with a Former Pimp came when she was testifying in front of the Canadian Senate regarding the new prostitution law.

During the hearing, Timea made the following statement: "No little girl has ever woken up at the age of three and said, "Mom, Dad, I want to be a prostitute."

The moment she finished that sentence, she asked herself, "What about the Pimps? They were little boys, too, once. How did they end up 'choosing' this lifestyle?"
